

START:
Are You Married?

Do you have a social security number?

Are you a U.S. Citizen, LPR, or "resident alien"?

You can get the payment for yourself and any children you claim that have a social security number

No Payment, even if your child has a social security number

You will get the payment for married couples and a payment for any child with a social security number

Do both you and your spouse have a social security number?

Does at least one spouse have a social security number?

Was one spouse active in the military in the last year?

You and your spouse will receive the payment for a married couple, plus a payment for each child who has a social security number

Do you and your spouse file "married filing jointly"?

If you file "married filing separately" the spouse with a social security number will get a payment and a payment for any child with a social security number that they claim